

Cool Water Girl Dream Video Game Idea

I dreamed a cool thing that could be great for a video game.

I have no time to use these ideas so I leave them here for you all:

A volcano was going to erupt and a boat was escaping it. On the boat was a watergirl. A girl made out of water, able to shape shift. She was part of an underwater world and culture but was curious about humans. She was sassy and for some reason was also into conspiracy theories for fun.

She was sneaky doing her best not to be noticed by the humans on the boat.

However an officer was giving a speech about the ocean, how the ocean worked. He studied the ocean. He had great interest in the ocean but was also very stern.

The girl noticed inconsistencies in his story and went in front of the crowd to tell her story about the ocean. She made her water form into miniature sharks in fish for her "show and tell".

The officer was angry and started shouting. As self defense she shot water in his face and fled.

However by doing this, the man swallowed some of her water. This prompted to change his DNA slowly. He became slowly like a water creature like the girl. This increased his intelligence greatly, but the interest in conspiracy theories of the girl also effected his DNA. This made him paranoid.

The officer ordered everyone to look for the girl and to destroy her.

This is level 1.

Water girl sneaks around avoiding humans using her water powers.

Possibly attacking in self defense.

Then a cutscene. The girl reaches the place of the officer, where he is talking to the strongest, quickest, smartest people of the ship. Each human having their own unique ability.

The girl uses her powers again, but accidentally again causes these humans to drink her water to become like her kind. These humans will be the bosses of the game.

The officer will be the final boss.

The officer gets mad and creates a robot of armies that patrol the ship looking for the girl.

The girl will have to avoid robots and humans, and probably fight them.

The officer wants to capture the girl and extract her powers, he could create an army to rule the world. There could be some more plot with the volcano, perhaps a conspiracy?

the volcano could be great for a final battle, water girl in the place most dangerous to her fire vs water! but its up to you to use these ideas

I have to many ideas, to turn into illustrated books now.